Conditions of Use

1. Title 17 of the United State Code governs the reproduction, distribution, display, performance, and creation of derivatives, of copyrighted material. Copyright resides with the author of a Work. The Enoch Pratt Free Library does not hold copyright to all of the original Works in its collection. Use of any images listed on this form which may be subject to copyright must first have written permission for use from the owner, heirs or assigns of the original material. Requesting and/or using any material in excess of fair use may make the user liable for copyright infringement.

   The Library staff does not sign licensing or permission forms from a customer or organization.

2. The publication of any item from the Library's collection requires the following credit line:

   © Enoch Pratt Free Library,
   Maryland's State Library Resource Center. All Rights reserved.
   Used with permission. Unauthorized reproduction or use prohibited.

3. The Library requires that the customer or organization provide two copies of any item appearing in print and the Library requires access to any item published electronically.

4. The Library does not surrender its own rights to publish and does not forbid permission to reproduce items listed in this agreement when requested by other customers or organizations.

5. A Use License permits a Customer to publish an unmodified copy of a Library Work solely as part of a larger work, such as an exhibit or image in a textbook. A Use License does not permit a Customer to alter, deface or otherwise modify a Library Work.

6. Customers may not display, distribute or publish a Library Work as part of, or in connection with, any publication, work or other use which itself is, or encourages behavior which is, harassing, libelous, abusive, threatening, obscene, pornographic or illegal.

7. Reuse of any image for other than the stated use or terms is not permitted without written consent.

8. Payment of all applicable Reproduction Fees, Use Fees and Delivery Fees must be received before orders may be processed.
